

Title: The Concept of Efficacy of Legal Norms: An Analysis of the Teleological Social Dimension of Law

Abstract: Based on a shared set of theses, a concept of the efficacy of legal norms can be reconstructed, which presents difficulties in explaining at least three complexities of the functioning of law: the role of interpretive activity in law creation, the presence of different forms of conduct orientation by legal norms, and the ignorance of normative texts by normative subjects. The aim of my research is to reconstruct, evaluate, and improve the concept of efficacy of legal norms used in the explanation of the functioning of law or teleological social dimension of law by examining these complexities.
